

HOLLAND EXCITED BY DEMAND TO GIVE UP KAISER

Works Day and Night

Miss Alice Brady.

New York.—The act of this circus performer who juggles two or three knives at the same time with perfect ease has been outdone by Miss Alice Brady, the talented actress daughter of William A. Brady, theatrical producer, who while on tour with a Broadway success, takes with her a motion picture producing organization in order that she may have something to keep her busy during the day.

Just now Miss Brady is in Boston devoting her nights to the theatre and her days to work before the camera in a story with a New England locale. During her Philadelphia engagement, which is to open soon, a story of Quaker life will be filmed, and later in Chicago a story with its background the metropolis of the middle west has been selected.

Speaking of the brilliant success of her daughter, Miss Brady recently declared:

"Returning to the stage after three years devoted exclusively to motion pictures, Miss Brady played nearly four hundred performances on Broadway, and recently has been on tour in the large cities in the United States. This triumphal tour in the matter of receipts has put in shame those banners which figures the portion only of a success yet to be achieved. Authors and managers—personages of the theatre who were wont to regard Miss Brady in the light of a success—yet to be achieved, have changed with the times, and her services for next season are probably the subject of more speculation than those of almost any other American player."

Brief But Spirited Tilt Occurs in Senate over College Vote on Treaty

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Jan. 19.—Another brief but spirited tilt occurred in the senate today when Senator Hitchcock, administration leader, presented final figures in the recent college vote on the peace treaty and expressed satisfaction that a large majority was against what he called "the destructive Lodge reservations." He also commented on the size of the vote for the qualified ratification for which the Nebraska senator said, the democrats "are ready to stand."

TURKS PROTEST PLAN TO DISMEMBER NATION

(By Associated Press.)
Constantinople, Wednesday, Jan. 14.—Protests against the reported intention of the peace conference to dismember the Turkish empire and to internationalize this city were voiced at a great mass meeting here today. Orators denounced on Turkey's "inalienable rights" to Constantinople.

Resolutions were adopted declaring Constantinople should be maintained as the capital of Turkey, demanding the evacuation of Smyrna and adjacent regions by the Greeks, asking for an immediate conclusion of peace, asserting the integral sovereignty of the Turkish nation should be maintained over territories in which the majority of the inhabitants are Turks and giving assurance that the rights and interests of Christian and Turkish minorities would be safeguarded.

Many meetings were held in Anatolia during the day under the auspices of Turkish national leaders.

Calm reigns in this city, order being maintained by Turkish and international police.

FAMOUS TAILOR SHOP IS TO BE PRESERVED

(By Associated Press.)
Greenville, Tenn., Jan. 19.—Andrew Johnson's tailor shop, one of the most famous structures in Tennessee, is to be moved to the court house grounds here to permit of its being used for three generations to be used for building purposes.

Johnson moved to Greenville and opened a tailor shop in the twenties, branching out later into politics and becoming in turn mayor, legislator, congressman, governor, senator, military governor, president and finally president of the United States.

Johnson's tailor shop, which was built in 1840, is a two-story building, with a gabled roof, and is one of the best preserved of the old buildings in the city.

PAN-AMERICANS OF 21 REPUBLICS MEET IN CONFERENCE

LEADING FINANCIERS AND BUSINESS MEN GATHER IN WASHINGTON.

GLASS PRESIDES

Message of Greetings Is Sent by Wilson from Sick Room.

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Jan. 19.—Marked by the presence of the leading financiers and business men of the 21 republics of the western hemisphere, the second Pan-American financial conference opened here today for the consideration of international problems arising from the return of peace.

President Wilson from his sick room sent a message of greeting to the ministers of finance and other prominent visitors, declaring that Pan-Americanism is a purpose in assisting world reconstruction and would regard it as a privilege to fulfill the obligations imposed by the great advantages enjoyed by the people of these republics. Secretary Lansing brought out the same idea in addressing the delegates when he said the Americans accepted the burdens thrust upon the new world by the war and would press forward confidently to the better days of the future.

Welcoming the visitors to the building of the Pan-American Union, where the general sessions are being held, Mr. Harmer, director general, spoke of the union's moral influence in preserving peace and building up commerce.

Secretary Glass, president-general of the conference, occupied the chair at the opening session, which was followed by the reading of the declaration of the federal reserve board and the United States section of the international financial commission. This afternoon the group committees from each country met to organize the sessions of the conference.

"I regret more deeply that I cannot express that the condition of the world is one of the greatest pleasure and privilege of meeting with you and personally expressing the gratification which every one of us feels at the presence at the national capital and particularly because of the friendly and significant mission which brings you to us."

"I rejoice with you that in these troubled times of world reconstruction the republics of the American continent should seek no selfish purpose but should be guided by a desire to serve one another in the spirit of the great privileges that have been showered on us both by reason of our geographical position and social ideals that have determined the national development of every country. With them obligations, the fulfillment of which must be regarded as a real privilege by every true American."

"It is no small achievement that the Americans are today able to say to the world that they have eliminated the idea of conquest from its national thought and from its international relations."

The spirit of mutual helpfulness which animates the conference supports and strengthens the American policy of co-operation in international politics. I rejoice with you that we are privileged to assemble with the sole purpose of ascertaining how we can serve one another, for in so doing we best serve the world."

(Signed) "Woodrow Wilson."

LIFTING OF BLOCKADE IN RUSSIA IS AWAITED

(By Associated Press.)
London, Jan. 19.—Representatives here of Russian co-operative organizations are eagerly awaiting advice as to how the allied decision to partially raise the Russian blockade will be made effective.

Although the official statement setting forth the allied decision indicates that trading between the United States and Russia is still under the ban, the importance of the ruling may be appreciated when it is stated that the co-operative societies, which have become the chief medium for the distribution of goods to the Russian peasants, are believed in some quarters that the lifting of the ban on the vast accumulation of Russian produce awaiting export may have a far-reaching effect on prices in the world's markets.

Stringing Beans in Homes Is Prohibited by Ruling

(By Associated Press.)
Mantowee, Jan. 19.—Because of a ruling of the industrial commission, Mantowee stands to lose from $25,000 to $35,000 in revenue per year and the packing of beans by the Wisconsin pea canners plants in this city and at two other plants will have to be abandoned. This is because the custom, here, as elsewhere, is to send the beans out to the homes to have the end snipped off and the strings removed.

Families made it a practice to send the children to the plant for the beans during the season and to deliver the finished articles. This is against factory law, according to a ruling of the commission.

INVESTIGATION LEFT TO COMMITTEE ON NAVAL DECORATIONS

DANIELS SAYS PEOPLE WILL BE SATISFIED WITH WAR RECORD.

ADMITS CLASHES

Emphasizes Admiral Was Subordinate to Mayo of Atlantic Fleet.

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Jan. 19.—Complete investigation of Rear Admiral Sims' charges against the navy department's conduct of the war will be made by a sub-committee now inquiring into the charges of naval decorations as soon as it completes its present task. This decision was made today by the full senate naval committee in a session presided over by Senator Pittman, democrat, Nevada, to have separate sub-committees named to make an immediate investigation of the charges against Sims' charges would not be undertaken until the committee had made its report on the matter.

CLERGYMEN HEAR KRAMER EXPRESS HOPE FOR DRY LAW

(By Associated Press.)
New York, Jan. 19.—The prohibition amendment was taken to the clergy by John P. Kramer, federal prohibition enforcement commissioner, in an address at the annual meeting of New York Clergymen.

"The passions, the appetites, and the desires of men," he said, "made it necessary for the promulgation of the law. The law is not a mere code of rules, but a living thing, embodied in holy writ. Notwithstanding the fact that the commandments and our criminal laws are not always in harmony, we are obeyed by the great mass of the American people. So I am sure it will be the case with the prohibition amendment and the laws enacted thereunder."

Mr. Kramer gave warning that popular opinion would be necessary for effective enforcement of prohibition, saying:

"The people of our country are apt to start things and then fail to keep up sufficient interest in them to see that they are carried to a successful conclusion. It is our duty to see that the people will accept this responsibility and perform the duty which plainly rests upon them."

NEWCOMERS AGAIN INVITED TO CHURCHES

(By Associated Press.)
That the true purpose of the church rest rooms is not known to people here was evident yesterday afternoon when members of the Federated and Baptist churches were the only visitors. The plan of giving newcomers a place in which to keep their Sunday afternoons. All strangers and others in the city, regardless of their creed are welcome to the church rest rooms. The Federated church rest rooms are open Sunday afternoon at either of the church rooms.

"We want the young women especially to avail themselves of the rooms. While members of the church are always present there has been no attempt of formality. Girls and young women are urged to come with their friends where they may be entertained with music and other diversions," said Mrs. A. M. Jones, secretary of the Federated church assisted by Mrs. H. S. Lovejoy, Mrs. S. M. Smith and Mrs. O. W. Atherton, who had charge of open house, yesterday afternoon.

CHICAGO FIRM MAY ERECT FOUNDRY HERE

(By Associated Press.)
Janesville's commercial advantages were again shown today when Mr. Rottabum, representing the Diversy Foundry company, arrived here on an extensive investigation for the purpose of locating suitable land for the erection of a large foundry.

The Diversy company has two large foundries in Chicago and directors are contemplating erection of a third in some nearby city.

Local business men accompanied Mr. Rottabum on his tour of inspection today.

NEARLY 11,000

(By Associated Press.)
A total of 10,800 copies of the 22-page review edition of the Gazette were printed Saturday for distribution to the city, county, state and nation and many other foreign countries. One copy will go half-way around the world to the Hawaiian Islands. It is addressed to Mrs. Clara W. Thompson, Nanaimo, New Zealand.

On a basis of the readers for each copy more than 50,000 people will know of Janesville's progress in the past year through the medium of the Gazette.

It has been suggested that local subscribers mail their copies to out-of-town friends during the last month. In addition to prohibition, another reason as signed is high wages.

NETHERLANDS ARE HONOR BOUND TO RELEASE EX-KAISER TO BE TRIED, ALLIES INFORM QUEEN

Refusal to Chastise Crimes Committed by Germans during War Is Non-Fulfillment of International Duty, Note Reads.

(By Associated Press.)

Brussels, Jan. 19.—Deep emotion has been caused in Holland by the allied demand for the extradition of former Emperor William of Germany, according to a dispatch. Belief is expressed at The Hague that measures will be taken with a view to inducing him to voluntarily place himself at the disposal of the allies.

Holland Put on Her Honor

Paris, Jan. 19.—Holland is told in the allied note demanding the extradition of former Emperor William that she will "not fulfill her international duty" if she refuses to associate herself with the entente powers in chastising crimes committed by Germans during the war.

The text of the note sent to The Hague and made public today says:

"In notifying The Netherlands government and queen of the text of the Article 227 of the treaty of Versailles the powers have the honor to make known that they have decided to put into execution without delay this article (Article 227 'publicly arraigns William III of Germany for a supreme offense against international morality and the sanctity of treaties') and declares the allied and associated powers will address a request to The Netherlands government for his surrender in order that he may be placed on trial."

"Consequently the powers address to the government of the Netherlands an official demand to deliver into their hands William of Hohenzollern, former emperor of Germany, in order that he may be judged."

Germans to Be Delivered

"Individuals residing in Germany against whom the allied and associated powers have brought charges are to be delivered to the powers. Article 228 of the peace treaty and the former emperor, if he had remained in Germany, would have been sentenced to death under conditions by the German government. The Netherlands government is conversant with the incontrovertible responsibility which imperiously exacts the punishment of international treaties as well as systematic disregard of the rights of nations should receive as regards everyone, including the highest placed personalities. The Netherlands government is to be held responsible for the peace conference."

TRANSPORT SAFE, PASSENGERS CALM

(By Associated Press.)
New York, Jan. 15.—The army transport Powhatan, in distress about 700 miles east of New York, reported by wireless to the army headquarters here at 4 p. m. today that although she was leaking and her boiler room flooded she was in "no immediate danger." The message said, "When the sea becomes smoother the passengers will be transferred to a liner. The liner Cedric which is standing by, for several days, Captain Randall will assist."

The United States Shipping board steamer Western Coast which is among the vessels nearby will attempt to tow the Powhatan to Halifax, the nearest port, after the passengers have been transferred to the Cedric.

2.5 BEER CANNOT BE SOLD IN WISCONSIN

(By Associated Press.)
Milwaukee, Jan. 19.—That beer containing 2.5 percent alcohol cannot be sold in Wisconsin is the opinion of the state attorney general, submitted to T. T. Hazelberg, prohibition commissioner, today. The opinion declares that the definition of beer in the state constitution prohibits a sale of beer containing more than 2.5 percent alcohol in Wisconsin.

Can Know All That Goes On Without Feeling It

(By Associated Press.)
Wilmington, Jan. 15.—Development of a new anesthetic "which eliminates pain without loss of consciousness and produces no nausea" was announced here by the E. J. Du Pont de Nemours company. The discovery, it is claimed, will produce a new type of anesthetic, one which is not only in obstetrical cases and dressing of wounds, but in dentistry.

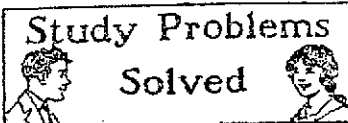

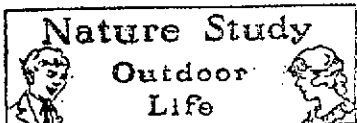

The anesthetic was described as a "new type of anesthetic" and modified by addition of certain gases which give it these new and desirable characteristics. "It's ability to produce insensibility to pain without loss of consciousness opens up an entirely new field of usefulness, including the large class of operations which have heretofore been performed without any attempt whatever to eliminate pain," said the company's announcement.

Eau Claire.—The Rev. Babcock, few years ago pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, but now located at McKeonport, Pa., received a unanimous call to the First Baptist church at Lowell, Mass., according to word received here. The retiring pastor of this church, the largest Protestant church in Lowell, is the Rev. A. C. Archibald, originator of the so-called "Lowell plan" of personal evangelism which has given the church national fame.

FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Red-Tailed Hawk
By Adella Belle Beard

It was not until a Red-Tailed Hawk came into the family as a pet that I realized what the term hawk-eyed really meant. I had thought that to be "hawk-eyed" was to see and observe everything, even the minutest object, but when our untamed pet turned his wonderful, clear, far-seeing eyes in my direction I felt that he did not look at me, but that his piercing gaze passed through and beyond my humble self.

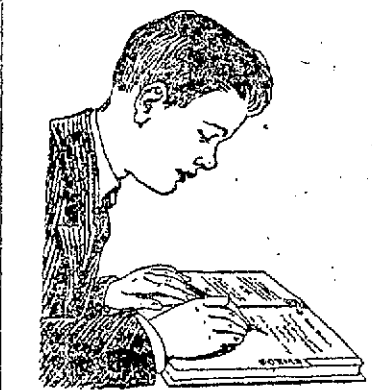

Chained to his perch though he was he made a highly captive and never lost his aloofness and dignity except when, attempting to escape, he would fly to the next-by high-board fence and topple over into our neighbor's garden where he hung suspended by one leg and screamed his indignation.

The rescue always fell to my lot, but not until I had secured my brother's heavy fur coat would I answer his call for help. For well I knew that Sir Hawk had a sharp beak and strong talons and might use them, for he seemed to be handling even for his own comfort.

Hawks have been trained, but it is doubtful if they ever become really tame, their nature seems too absolutely wild to allow of companionship even with a boy.

Of the several species in the United States and Canada the Red-Tailed Hawk is the most common. It is a fine looking bird with a wide spread of wings on which it circles the upper air. Its color is dark brown, reddish on the tail, throat white and breast light streaked with darker color. Its length is about 21 inches.

Though often called Chicken and Hen Hawk it seldom troubles the poultry yard; instead the Red-Tailed Hawk is the great destroyer of insect pests of the farmer. It has been proved that most of its food consists of these enemies to growing crops. There are blood-thirsty villains in the Hawk family but Red-Tail is not among them. Remember changed at any time, pages could be discarded without spoiling the book. His headings were:

Short Stories: I Like, and Where I Found Them

Then followed a list of stories, sometimes with comments, sometimes a quotation, sometimes merely a title, or a note naming other stories by the same author for future reading.

Discoveries: When Made and by Whom

Usually he noted the magazine (year and month or volume and page) in which the article appeared, so that he could refer to it without difficulty.

The Best Books I Have Read This Year and Why I Like Them

Under this heading I found such notes as follows: a "Good argument to use in debate, Ch. 4, p. 9." b. "A good description of French airplanes, p. 25." c. "Good map of the Panama Canal Zone, p. 121."

A Few Poems I Like

In some cases, under this heading, Henry had copied a poem in full, sometimes if it happened to be the modern verse which might prove difficult to find.

The other six divisions show further the boy's particular interest in his study. You may not like Henry's topics, but perhaps you may like his idea and want to start a book using the plan.

Writing and classifying your knowledge is an excellent way of impressing it upon your mind. If memory depends upon deep impressions, Henry's experiment may prove worth trying. Certainly such a reference book would prove valuable to a student, even if it did not improve his memory.

(Tomorrow Grant M. Hyde will tell the boys how to make a "Home-Made Call Buzzer.")

THREE PASSENGER CARS JUMP RAILS

Toy rails caused the derailment of three cars on an early morning Chicago and N. W. passenger train four miles north of the city at 5:45 o'clock this morning.

Passengers, though rudely shaken about by bumping over the ties, suffered no serious injuries. Conveyances from this city brought passengers here during the morning, which enabled them to transfer to other trains and continue their trips.

A force of men was at work at the scene of the derailment at 8 o'clock and all necessary repairs to the track were to be made so that normal traffic might be resumed by late afternoon.

BOLSHEVIKI READY FOR "PEACE."

With a long series of military victories to their credit, victories which have well-nigh eliminated organized opposition to them in Russia, the bolsheviks have entered upon a campaign for peace which is destined to give them world-wide political control. By force they have virtually reduced Russia to their complete domination, but they are sensible of their inability to overcome other peoples by the same means. They must destroy those others from within. For that they must have peace. They must present a semblance of friendliness, appear to be satisfied with their success in Russia and establish relations with the outside world. Then they will be able to sneak their emissaries to every corner of the world, quietly organize their propaganda and at a given moment cause an uprising in every country they have treacherously invaded. For a time, therefore, we may expect a subsidence of open radical efforts in the lands marked for destruction. Lenin has already ordered his followers in Italy to abstain from revolutionary movements which "under present conditions offer little likelihood of success." That is to say, bolshevism cannot succeed through violence in countries which are awake to the menace. They must be lulled into a sense of security through belief that bolshevism has ceased its vicious activities. Then the practically disarmed peoples can be massacred and enslaved by one bold stroke.

In dealing with the Russian bolsheviks the despicable character of that outfit must be kept constantly in mind. It is impossible to make any peace with them, because they will not be true to any commitments that do not advance their own purposes. They want peace only that they may recoup strength for a renewal of the contest with society at large. They have gone as far as they can with the methods of their first choice. They have the world on the defensive. If they make a show of abandoning their aggressiveness the world will lower its guard, they hope.

No doubt it will if there is not a thorough understanding of the Red foe. There are almost insuperable difficulties in the way of crushing the bolsheviks by military force; it will be comparatively simple to prevent the spread of the Red scourge. If suitable defensive measures are adopted and, above all, each country wages relentless war on the radicals within its borders.

HUMAN FRAILTY.

Before condemning too severely the Chicago individuals who have leaped into the limelight as petitioners for what they regard as their rights in these days of jazzed finances, one should try to put himself in the other fellow's place. A coat and hat check girl in a hotel is seeking to recover some $20,000 as her share of the tips she has received and paid by compulsion to a "tip syndicate." In another instance certain grand opera stars are exposed as paying nightly large sums to a "claque combination" who are given access to the theatre and whose duty it is to show noisy enthusiasm for the singing of their generous patrons, without any reference to the value of said vocalism.

We are given in these two instances an intimate angle from which to study human rights versus human laws of honesty. Neither the coat and hat check nor the opera claque have violated any legal ordinance known to present-day civilization or society. They are victims of a very prevalent conception of human rights. Of course the public cannot properly be brought into the affair for cogent reasons. It is the public's office to set the example and then pay the piper.

HIGHER SALARIES.

In increasing the salaries of several of the county officers and employees, the board of supervisors has taken a commendable step in the right direction. Often in public affairs, governing bodies fail to recognize that in the treatment of paid help they are in the same position as other employers, and when costs of living advance, salaries should be increased in proportion.

Rock county is growing. In the last year the amount of work which has fallen to those officials has increased until in most instances it is double what it was when the present incumbents took office. Thus, with greater responsibilities thrust upon them, it is only just that they should be paid more money.

By its action, the supervisors have shown that they are alive to the advantage of paying high enough salaries to make the county positions attractive to the best talent.

These New Yorkers who emptied their revolvers without effect in a street duel may be forgiven their disorderly conduct, but they should be prosecuted for such poor marksmanship.

Some wealthy New Yorkers were fleeced out of $550,000 by a shark with marked cards, but some other folks merely buy worthless wildcat securities.

SMILE.
The good Lord understood us when he taught us how to smile.
He knew we couldn't stand it to be solemn all the while;
He knew He'd have to shape us so that when our hearts were gay,
We could let our neighbors know it in a quick and easy way.

So He touched the lips of Adam and He touched the lips of Eve,
And He said: "Let these be solemn when your sorrows make you grieve,
But when all is well in Eden and your life seems much worth while,
Let your faces wear the glory and the sunlight of a smile."

"Teach the symbol to your children, pass it down through the years,
They shall know their share of sadness and shall weep their share of tears;
But forever through the ages men shall prove their faith in Me
By the smile upon their faces when their hearts are trouble-free."

The good Lord understood us when He sent us down to earth.
He knew our need for laughter and for happy signs of mirth;
He knew we couldn't stand it to be solemn all the while,
But must share our joy with others—so He taught us how to smile.

Rent Profiteers

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

New York, Jan. 18.—When your struggle with the rent profiteer becomes too exasperating, become a rent profiteer yourself. This is the clever alternative which hundreds of New Yorkers are now adopting in order to prepare for the coming year. They are taking the home comforts and luxuries to which they have been accustomed, but which are now beyond the means of the majority of the city, and are pooling their savings and building or buying their own apartment houses, living in the choicest suites and renting the others at a good profit.

It is a most profitable investment. In building your own apartment house you can have anything you want. You can have the most attractive kind of decoration, large rooms, the most up-to-date bath, the most artistic lighting fixtures, an electric refrigerating plant, dumb but expensive and even balconies and stairs. If you want to have a pleasant afternoon some time just get some blue prints and make up the necessary things that are available for apartment houses. And the nicest thing about it is that you can get all these conveniences at a very low cost by making your tenants pay for them.

Make Tenants Pay. Of course, you will have some capital to put into the enterprise yourself, but it does not necessarily have to be much. You can borrow the money with which to construct the building, and also make your tenants pay for that.

Not long ago, for example, some tenants in a large hotel apartment house held an indignation meeting to protest against the nefarious ways of the management. For one thing, the management was stingy with its coal, and for another it provided the most erratic and haphazard sort of an elevator service. The elevator would only stop at 10 o'clock in the morning and before 10 o'clock at night; moreover, it moved only for the tenants in person. Guests of the tenants were compelled to use the stairs.

"I simply cannot stand it, any longer," declared the wife of a successful advertising man, who believed she had heart trouble and was therefore outraged at having to walk the three flights of stairs to her apartment four times a day. "But what can we do?" demanded a woman osteopath, who was losing patients on account of the independence of the elevator.

"I'd like to be manager of this place for just about 30 minutes," said the wife of the advertising manager, "and I'll show you how to run it." "Well, why don't you take over the management?" interrupted her husband. "You have nothing else to do."

"Why don't we all take over the management?" suggested a plump and prosperous-looking broker, who was known to have influential connections in Wall street.

Have Great Inspiration. The tenants had never thought of it before, but now they perceived it to be a great inspiration. They had a small sum of capital to invest, and the broker assured them that the rest of the money could be raised in Wall street. "There's nothing like a proposition of this kind," he said. "I'll be easy." Which subsequently proved to be the case.

Two of the members of this indignation meeting had become the landlords of the premises; were living in all the apartments, and were receiving the rent. The other five suites at an increased rate of rent. They had to pay rent, too, but only enough to cover the cost of the mortgage. Adding to this the 7 percent interest they would have received from investing their capital elsewhere, they were getting a lower cost than if they had been paying private landlords. The expenses of operating the building were met entirely by the rent of the new tenants, who were unlikely enough to be left out of the corporation.

This is only one of many recent instances which show that the moderately well-off and the wealthy do not enjoy being victims of profiteering any more than do the poor. Those who live in 11 rooms and 11 baths, suites do not care to pay exorbitant prices for them any more than do those who live in two and three room apartments. The only difference is that they do not have to do it. They have discovered this thrifty means of circumventing it.

Regal Palace Is Fast. The latest scheme for a cooperatively-owned apartment house, which is still in the form of blue-prints, is to investigate the back tax situation. Tarsney said, and Doremus' future was assured.

As a tax ferret Doremus made good, with the result that within a short time he was elected to the job of controller of Detroit. He also was in the Michigan legislature. Then Tarsney said he had the job of a congressman loaded on him. Doremus never has had to struggle for office, folks just seemingly voting for him through habit.

WHOS WHO in the Dax News. REPRESENTATIVE DOREMUS. Friends of the progressive Frank E. Doremus of Michigan assert that he will soon announce that he is through with congress because he does not care to be a member of the house. When his retirement goes into effect there will close temporarily at least, one of the most interesting political careers in the United States. It is interesting because of the fact that Doremus has held office continuously for about 20 years and has been literally pushed into his job.

Up to the time that Doremus was about 32 years old he ran a counting house in Detroit, Michigan. Then he decided that he wanted to study law, so he went down to Detroit, called on Tim Tarsney, an old political leader, and apprised him that he desired to become a lawyer. Tarsney assigned Doremus to a desk in the corner of his office and told him to start in studying law. After studying for two years, Doremus went to Tarsney and told him that he was out of funds, therefore, he would have to lay off for a year or two until he could make some more money. Tarsney said, "Doremus, you had better get on with you, so Doremus did with the result that he was admitted to the bar. Tarsney heard during the night that Doremus had, successfully, passed the examination, so in the morning when Doremus arrived at Tarsney's office, he found his name painted on the door as a member of the firm.

"Well, I see you got that job all right," Tarsney said to Doremus, a few hours later.

"What do you mean?" Doremus inquired.

"Why you've been made a special assistant to the corporation counsel."

not some model dwelling for working people, but a regal palace, complete with appointments of royalty. It is to be a 16-story structure, erected on one of the most valuable sites of the city, with a large restaurant on the ground floor, which is to be conducted by a prominent restaurateur and is to furnish service to all the individual apartments in the building. For the families who prefer home cooking, there will be all of the latest labor-saving devices to help perform the work, when the servant problem refuses to be solved—even by the management. For it is announced that the management is to provide the chief cooks and to provide the individual apartments with the blue prints show that the dish-washing will be done mostly by electricity. Refrigeration will also be accomplished by electricity, so that the tenants will not be troubled by the loud and impatient devices of the past. In fact, they will not be bothered with the business of keeping house at all.

While the management will have all the ease and comfort of all the responsibilities. Of course, they will have the bother of hiring the management. This particular house is not to be built on the mortgage system. The owners are to pay cash. They will live in the building, and the other third, which will provide an income of about $270,000 a year. This amount will cover the pay for the building expenses of the house, so that the owners will be able to live in their apartments for the interest on their investment. The interest on the investment is about one-third of the usual price for such establishments.

Popular But Not New. Although so popular at present, the cooperatively-owned apartment is not a new idea. More than 40 years ago a group of visionaries conceived the idea of reducing the rent to about one-third of the usual price for such establishments. It is hard to believe, but even today, a home providing reasonable comforts was far beyond the average man's means. Then the poor and the rich were accepting their stations in life with much greater equanimity, and a social class was having the greatest battle with the housing problem.

This battle was particularly difficult and irritating for the painters, musicians, and writers of the community whose homes were also of necessity their workshouses. The painter and the musician had to have their quiet, and the children of both had to have a agreeable environment. So eventually, they got together and planned a sort of dreary Utopia (at least so it appeared to their contemporaries) where each of them would have the kind of home he wanted, and yet all of them would pay for it. In other words, it would be co-operative.

Risk Their Savings. After much discussion, a group of them worked out the plans for such a home and decided to risk their savings in it. They were to subscribe to the cost of the land and building, and the remainder was to be provided by mortgage. Each member was to receive stock in the corporation, which was to be paid for approximately 100 years on a certain portion of the building. Those who had invested the most money naturally secured the choicest locations.

In addition to the space for their own suites, there was also space for the best being relied upon to pay the operating costs, the interest on the mortgage, taxes, and a fund for depreciation. While in the beginning there were a few failures, the experiment proved successful, and since then whole numbers of cooperative apartment houses have sprung up in various parts of the city.

In a strict sense, they are not co-operative, and the real co-operatives, including the Cooperative League of America, resent your calling them that. It would be more correct perhaps to call them incorporated, because the co-operatives insist that no enterprise is truly co-operative unless the control is shared equally by all who have an interest. But whatever you call them, these new apartment houses are satisfactorily solving the rent question for their owners. They are the best method which has yet been found for beating the rent profiteer, and it is interesting to know that anything so probable and businesslike should have been discovered by a few dreamy, temperamental artists.

As a tax ferret Doremus made good, with the result that within a short time he was elected to the job of controller of Detroit. He also was in the Michigan legislature. Then Tarsney said he had the job of a congressman loaded on him. Doremus never has had to struggle for office, folks just seemingly voting for him through habit.

It is interesting because of the fact that Doremus has held office continuously for about 20 years and has been literally pushed into his job.

Up to the time that Doremus was about 32 years old he ran a counting house in Detroit, Michigan. Then he decided that he wanted to study law, so he went down to Detroit, called on Tim Tarsney, an old political leader, and apprised him that he desired to become a lawyer. Tarsney assigned Doremus to a desk in the corner of his office and told him to start in studying law. After studying for two years, Doremus went to Tarsney and told him that he was out of funds, therefore, he would have to lay off for a year or two until he could make some more money. Tarsney said, "Doremus, you had better get on with you, so Doremus did with the result that he was admitted to the bar. Tarsney heard during the night that Doremus had, successfully, passed the examination, so in the morning when Doremus arrived at Tarsney's office, he found his name painted on the door as a member of the firm.

"Well, I see you got that job all right," Tarsney said to Doremus, a few hours later.

"What do you mean?" Doremus inquired.

"Why you've been made a special assistant to the corporation counsel."

What the ancients do, you can do. Now listen.
St. Anthony lived to the age of 105 on 12 ounces of bread and water daily. James the Hermit lived until he was 184 and he never had a porterhouse steak in his life. Simon the Stylite lived to the age of 112 and he lived on roots and yarrow.

St. Epiphanius lived 115 years on bread and water. Kentigern stuck around 150 years and he never ate in a restaurant more than once or twice in his life.
Louise Latteau lived 12 years without any food at all.

She Married an Average Man

By ZOE BECKLEY.

"This having to go and live at Hammond's corners, it's a hard thing I've had to do since Jim and I were married."

"I admitted this to Athena last today, for I am so blue I had to tell to some one or burst."

"Well, my dear, I hope you never have a worse sorrow," said my old friend. "But not so blue, Ann, that you don't seem to realize, Ann, that this big job of Jim's is a turning point in his career. I only wish every woman's sacrifices were in so good a cause."

The trouble is, millions of wives have to crucify themselves in the most thankless ways. Why, I know a dozen women who married lives have been just one sacrifice after another, with nothing to show for it."

"But I'm not hungry for wealth, Athena," I argued. "Money's no good if you have to lose every pleasure in life to get it. How can I LIVE away from New York City, where I've got to go to bury myself in the country. I've had enough of village life."

"You talk like a child!"

"What?" I asked. "I'm not meaning wealth, but character. It's Jim I'm thinking of this time, not you. Jim is a decent fellow, but he's not a success. He's a skidder. Only he wasn't caring whether he landed anywhere or not. Then your success at writing worked. Don't you see you must keep up your good work? Not for the money's sake, but for character's sake. You must make it succeed and keep him successful. No woman wants a poor scrub for a husband!"

"Gee, you're right," I replied, slowly, for it's true that I never had looked at it this way before. "Only I don't see how I can hard look at Jim couldn't be just as successful here as in Hammond's Corners."

Athena snorted.

"You talk like a selfish little pig," she snapped. "The sacrifice won't hurt you one bit. Do you want everything to be handed to you on a silver platter as long as you live? A diet of cakes and ale may be pleasant, but it isn't nourishing. It's about as developing to the system as unalloyed happiness is to the soul."

I was silent. I felt rebellious. Nobody seems to understand me, not even Athena, who usually understands everything. I know she is right, but I want a little sympathy anyhow. If I had never known New York it wouldn't be so hard. But to be dragged away just as I was revealing in my first taste of happiness and success and a full, interesting life—away from all my friends, especially Athena, my mainstay. Nothing to do but keep house."

"You'll have a corking chance to write, you know. Athena interrupted my musings as if she were reading my mind. 'And—and to raise a family.'"

"I'll tell you, Athena, I'm not so sure about this. I feel almost resentful. Athena met my glance with her most good-natured grin.

"Motherhood is one of the richest experiences in life. You'll never be a master of life until you're a mother. It repays you a thousand fold, no matter how things turn out. Then Athena, having dropped her little bomb, went home and left me thinking—thinking.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A PAIN BABY—III

The Best of Nature, the best of baby specialist, provides all the food, drink, digestion regulator and physic a baby requires. And I guess they ought to. This is a doctor's autobiography as a trained nurse. You ought to see some of the tricks my mother can perform when she is feeling funny. She can turn her head around and stand on her head, "everything" about as well as my father can, and we have lots of fun.

This food, drink, digestion regulator and physic I have mentioned is the colostrum, which is the fluid a baby gets by regular nursing. It is the best food a baby can get. From the time of birth until milk secretion is fully established on the third day. After that the nursing is done on demand. No water, no pap, no medicine of any kind should be given a baby the first two or three days after birth, but must be given on demand. Mrs. Sarey Gamp may put forward, I suppose you know Sarey? She's death on us kids, though the old folks probably think she's a good mother. What she doesn't know about the proper management of young babies has a whole lot to do with the fact that one in every seven babies born in this country dies before the end of a year.

Father has faith in Nature. Nature is God. Had God intended little babies to have more nursing than the first two or three days than they get in the colostrum, you may be sure He would have sent that nursing mother to heaven. The custom of giving the fruit infant with some kind of "nourishment" or dope or physic is the cause of the trouble and betrays a deplorable state of health-ignorance of which a self-respecting parent should be ashamed. A baby is a blessed thing more on the whole and deliciously adjusted than an eighty dollar watch, and says, and no one but a mental defective would entrust the regulation adjustment or repair of such a watch to the neighbors or the first old woman that happens to drop in.

The first dose of castor oil poured into a baby by your "experienced" practical nurse is never really necessary. Its effect is to upset the whole beautiful co-ordination of the

$4,500 IS RAISED IN CHURCH DRIVE

Pledges amounting to $3,000 for the parish and $1,500 for the general work of the churches and other organizations in the city of the nationwide campaign begun yesterday when all members of Trinity Episcopal church made a canvass of the parish.

Rev. Henry Williamson said today that he believed the quota for the national campaign of $4,000 for the parish would be reached this week. The committee, headed by Supt. J. T. Hooper, will finish the work this week.

A publicity campaign heralding the drive and various meetings at the church aided in making the canvass successful.

A sermon emphasizing plain facts, was preached yesterday morning by Bishop William Walter Webb as a beginning of the every member campaign. Taking as his text the question asked by St. Paul after his conversion, "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do," he gave a brief resume of the needs of the church. He showed the need in the state for renewed effort in church work, as there were many counties where there were few or no churches.

Calumet and the Nursing Mother.

Should a baby two months old, and nursing mother take calumet? May a nursing mother take calumet? May she be her diet? (P. B. S.)

ANSWER—They should not, but take calumet merely as a physic. The doctor may prescribe calumet for another purpose, but he knows a mother is ordinarily thought of course she must take a little more food. She should omit no food whatever which is ordinarily palatable and wholesome. She should not consult the old doctor and delicately ask her diet. She should imagine that any food which is agreeable to her is not good for the nursing baby.

Mrs. Pierce selected a severe time for her test—the middle of January. Yet she started getting the eggs promptly. Your hens can lay well, in cold weather and we'll prove it. Here's our offer: Give your hens Don Sung, and watch results for one month. If you don't find that it pays for itself and gives you a good profit besides, simply tell us and your money will be promptly refunded.

Don Sung (Chinese egg-laying) was directly on the egg-laying game, and is also a splendid tonic. It is easily given in the feed, improves the hen's health, makes her stronger and more active in any weather, and starts her laying.

Try Don Sung for 30 days and if it doesn't get you the eggs, no matter how cold or wet the weather, your money will be refunded. Don't miss it. Get Don Sung from your drugist or poultry remedy dealer or send for the best for a package free of charge. Russell-Junger Co., 219 Columbia Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

Professor Henry Norton stated:—

"I am able to say with confidence that margarine contains nothing whatever that is injurious as an article of diet, but on the contrary, is essentially identical with the best fresh butter and is superior to much of the butter made from cream alone which is found in the market. The conditions of its manufacture involve a degree of cleanliness and consequent purity in the product, such as are by no means necessarily or generally attained in the ordinary making of butter from cream."

Professor Norton is the Food Expert of the Stevens Institute of Technology of New Jersey.

It is time such matters as these are brought out.

All milk and cream are supposed to be clarified and pasteurized before they leave the milk stations in the country. But every one of the hundreds of cans of milk and cream that come to us daily are re-clarified and re-pasteurized by us before they are ever allowed to go to our churns.

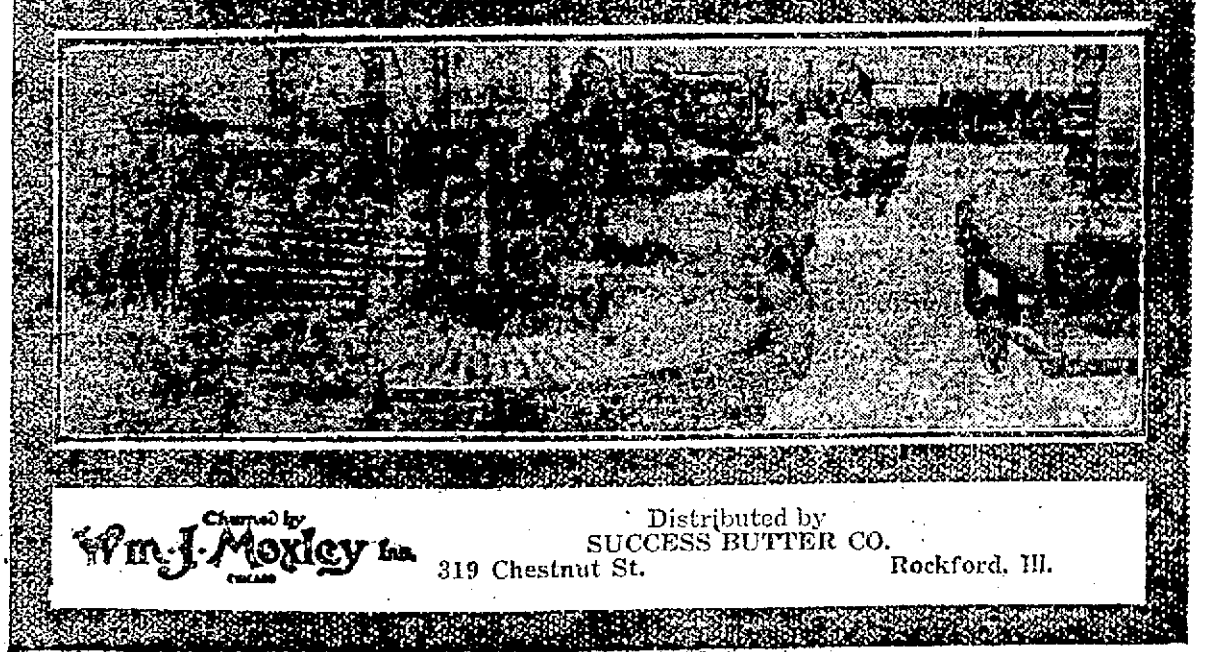

You would not give your kiddies unclarified or unpasteurized milk. You know how vital that is. Well, it is just as vital with margarine. Your family physician or your health commissioner will tell you that.

[All food reports without exception agree on this point.

And therefore, we KNOW that "DIXIE" Margarine is absolutely pure and absolutely wholesome. It not only tastes like good butter, but it is more nutritious than any butter.

Try it and you will mighty quickly convince yourself.

Below is a picture of one of our great butter workers used to "work" "DIXIE" exactly the same as butter is worked.
